

Many fellowships invite guest ministers to preach to them because they desire to receive from the treasure of God that is resident in the guest minister. Unfortunately few fellowships understand what is expected of them when hosting ministers of the gospel.

The result of this ignorance (in the hosts) has lead to the misuse and abuse of guest ministers to a point of straining and breaking relationships that were once cordial.

This book will give you insight on how to host ministers of the gospel and reveal to you your duties as a host from the time you invite a guest minister up to the moment you release that guest minister.

An understanding of this material will enable you to receive that which God has put in any guest minister for you.
